

STRIKERS ARE VERY ANGRY

The Lack Of Provisions May Assist The Government In Controlling Situation.

"DEATH TO THE CZAR," IS THE CRY

Father Gopon Issues A Manifesto Urging The Death Of Czar Nicholas--Strikers Are Not Violent Today.

(SPECIAL BY SCHIFFS-M'RAE.)

St. Petersburg, Jan. 25.—Mazim Gorki, the author who has been named on several occasions as the head of the proposed provisional government, was arrested yesterday evening. At a theatre performance at Kishineff last night revolutionary pamphlets were distributed and the government publicly denounced. Twenty persons were arrested. The disorders are growing today and workmen are marching about the streets shouting, "We intend to revenge the Kishineff massacre." Among those arrested are four Jewish soldiers. The strike movement is not growing as rapidly at Moscow as yesterday. A large number of workmen refuse to join the movement, saying they are contented with the present industrial conditions. The troops today are doing their utmost to prevent the strikers from assembling for demonstration before the Kremlin. The night passed quietly. More shops are opened this morning and the streets have a more animated appearance than at any time since Sunday. No disorders are reported within the city. Conflicting reports regarding the state of affairs at Tzar-koselo are current this morning. Following a report the czarvitch is ill with pneumonia it is now stated the czar himself has taken to his bed as a result of a nervous breakdown.

Are Very Active

It is stated in Russian revolutionary circles in London that the organization is active in London and Paris, arranging for a supply of funds and material for the general provincial revolts in Russia on Thursday or Friday of this week. The day of this revolt is expected to be far bloodier than the one on Sunday last.

Factories Quit

Most of the workers in the factories at Riga quit and the masters and strikers have opened negotiations and are now discussing terms. There are no disturbances.

In Supreme Command

Governor General Trepoft was appointed yesterday to take supreme command of the city today. The state of siege has not yet been proclaimed, but it actually exists, the governor general having absolute power. During the night hundreds of arrests were made. The situation at Moscow is becoming more threatening. The strike continues to spread. This afternoon the Barristers' association adjourned and joined the strikers.

Is Spreading

The strike is spreading throughout the district of Saratov, one of the most important trade manufacturing centres of Russia. Notice has been posted in all the works giving the strikers twenty-four hours to resume work, intimating that those who do not comply would be deported to the villages. At Saratov the railway shopmen and other workers have struck.

Men Hungry

The strikers have been inaugurated at Kremenchug, Tanboff and Astrachan. Poverty and hunger today are working against the strikers. The meagre stores possessed when the strike began are becoming exhausted. A number of workmen have applied at the factories for permission to return to work. They were turned away as the owners are afraid to open their

President Morales, who brought about the agreement with this government for the adjustment of the debts of the island, is not powerful among his subjects, and of the seven ports of the island there are but two where it is considered he could

Many Funerals

The funerals of many of the victims of Sunday's tragedy were held today. In several cases a man and wife carried between them a box containing a child killed. Some coffins were borne on common carriers' sleds, the mourners following on foot. No demonstrations, but the workmen and others stood uncovered as the little groups passed into the Volkoff cemetery, where 167 bodies were buried.

More Striking

At Moscow the workmen of twenty factories quit this afternoon and the strikers are now parading under the watchful eye of troops. No encounters have taken place.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 25.—Coincident with the declaration that St. Petersburg is in "a state of siege," and the appointment of Gen. Trepoft, "the butcher of Moscow," as virtual dictator of the imperial city, Father Gopon issued a revolutionary call for the murder of the czar. He also urged the killing of the "whole republican brood" of ministers, grand dukes, and officials of the government. He calls on men of all beliefs to rise and use any means within their power to free ill-starred Russia.

The priest also pronounced his anathema on the soldiers who shot down men, women and children, his blessing on all who desert the army and aid the people, absolving all such from their military oath of allegiance. Priest Demands Vengeance.

His proclamation calling for the blood and lives of Russia's rulers is as follows:

"Brothers and Workmen Whose Chalice Has Been Filled With Blood: We intended to go peacefully to the czar with our petition on Jan. 22. Of this, our intention, we informed his majesty's ministers before-hand, requesting them to withdraw the troops and not to hinder us from approaching our monarch.

"To the emperor himself I forwarded a letter on Jan. 19 requesting him to come forth to his people with a grateful heart and a courageous soul. At the price of our own lives we guaranteed him the inviolability of his person.

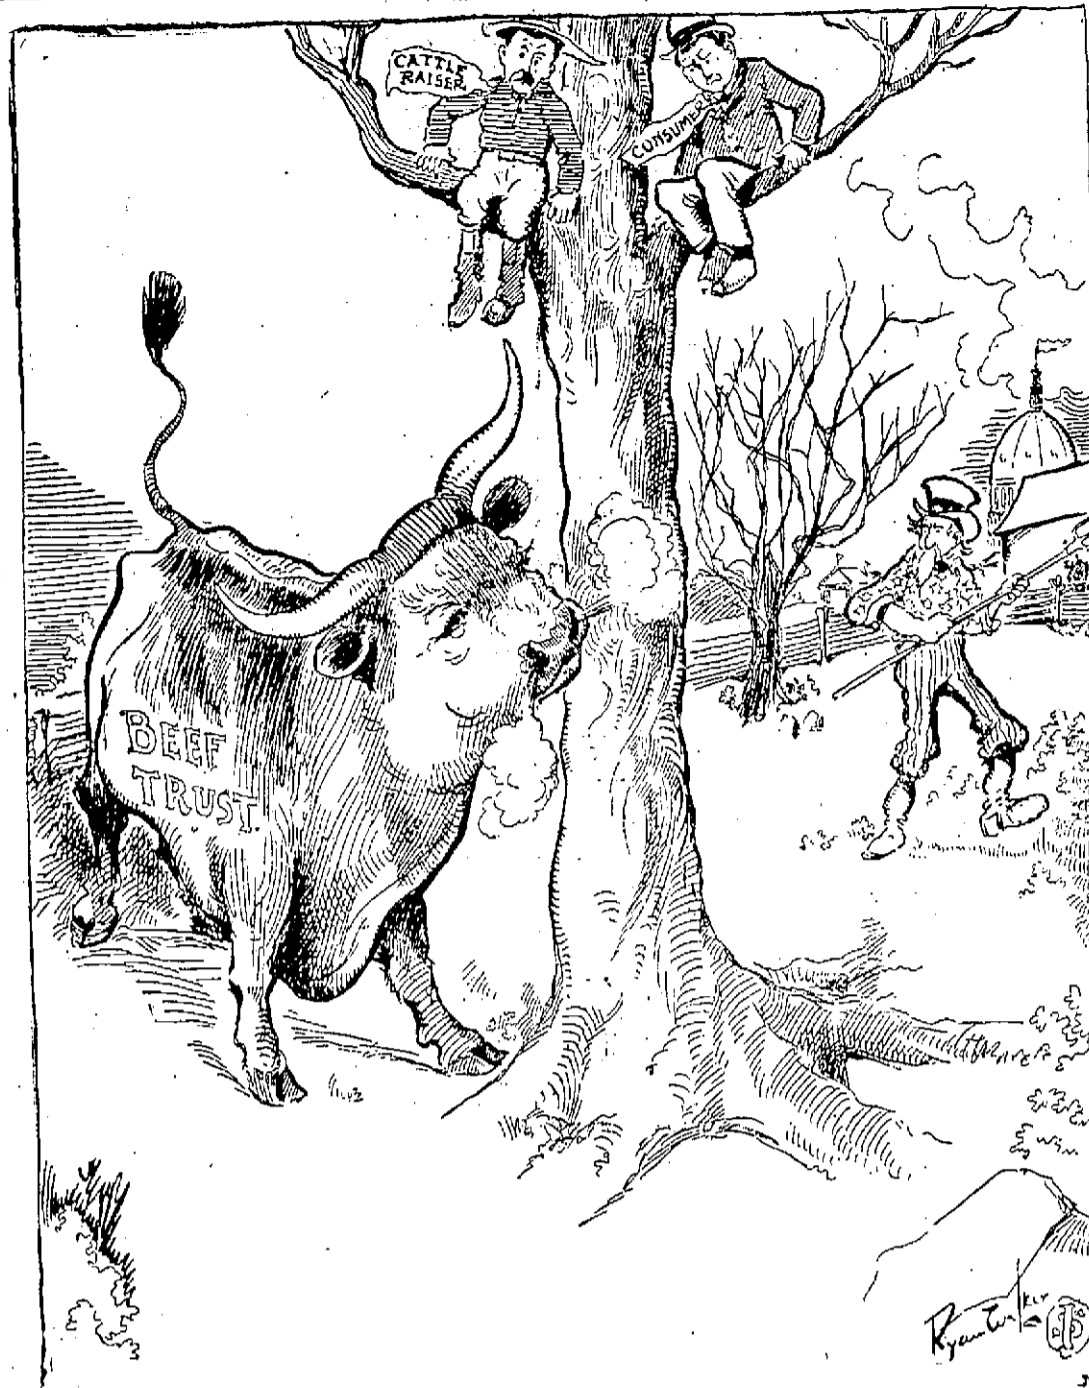

"And what came of it? "Innocent blood none the less was shed.

"The miscreant czar and his malicious officials who are the robbers of the treasury and the plunderers of the Russian nation deliberately resolved to massacre our unarmed brothers, their wives and their children.

"The bullets of the emperor's troops which at Narva street killed workmen who were bearing the emperor's portraits and pierced those portraits killed our faith in the czar. Proclaimers Death to Royalty.

"But we shall wreak vengeance for our slain brothers on the czar, accursed by his people; on all his imperial reptilian blood; on his ministers; on all the plotters of this

STATE NOTES

Released from prison after serving two years and a half in the reformatory for holding up Henry Cordes of Cooperstown at Manitowoc, March 2, 1901, George Ferris died at Green Bay. The day before he was taken to Green Bay, Sunday, June 16, he was married to Grace Juffer in jail at Manitowoc.

William Haugen of Rice Lake, aged 19, was killed by falling from a landing in August Mason's camp near Long lake.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Koppe, residents of Wausau for thirty years, will have been married fifty years on Feb. 1. Mrs. Jacob Goetzler of Milwaukee is a daughter.

John F. Dicz, who is holding up the legs of the Chicago Lumber & Boom company at Thomapple dam, writes to William E. Seiel of Minneapolis saying that Sawyer county officials are puppets in the hands of the company; that public funds are misused, and that twenty-two of the twenty-eight townships in the county have been provided with neither a highway or school.

John Engelinger, who forged the name of E. G. Oswald to several checks, has surrendered himself and been sentenced to a year in the Green Bay reformatory. He has been at Marshfield and Manitowoc since leaving Wausau.

Theodore Bunker, who formerly edited a newspaper at Hayward, committed suicide at St. Paul, where he conducted a tailoring establishment. Lee Gong Yok and Lee Sing of Ashland, arrested on a federal warrant, will have a hearing on Feb. 2.

May Foment Revolution. The action of the United States in taking charge of the customs revenues of the island, the chief source of the income of the republic, is certain to be resented by subordinates to President Morales, who have had charge of the customs houses and who have been enjoying the revenues from them. Whether this element openly will resent the act by fomenting a revolution is not known, but it is regarded as a strong possibility by officials of the state department, and accordingly a request has been made to the navy department asking for the battleships to augment the cruisers of Sigbee's division.

Morales Holds Few Ports. President Morales, who brought about the agreement with this government for the adjustment of the debts of the island, is not powerful among his subjects, and of the seven ports of the island there are but two where it is considered he could

DID NOT PAY FOR THEIR BOARDING

Strange Condition of Affairs Has Become Known at The University.

(SPECIAL BY SCHIFFS-M'RAE.)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 25.—Charles H. Kilpatrick, former graduate manager of athletics at the University of Wisconsin, has submitted a financial statement in response to pointed inquiries as to the spending of the fortune of money taken in during the past year. The statement shows that athletes have been practically supported, if not paid, in order to get them to strive for the cardinal, the training table cost $4,183.77 and the receipts from this source were only $297.93. The announced custom is to charge the athletes for their rooms and board what they would have to pay at ordinary boarding houses, and the association stand the difference.

The ordinary rates, the lowest, are $2.50 per week for board and $2.50 a week for apartments, $6 per week for board and room per student. With the estimated number of athletes, twenty, being cared for at the training table house, the income would be several thousand dollars a year, but less than $100 was in fact collected.

This is what the statement proves. It is known here, however, that no attempt is made to collect from athletes at the training house and the expense of operating it is practically wholly stood by the association.

Here are taken those athletes who will not come to the university unless their expenses are provided for them, and when any athletes other than these are taken to the training table, he usually considers his board free.

Some accounts are kept, for Mr. Kilpatrick reports that at least $500 is due from athletes for board in 1903 and 1904. This situation is one of the things the present "reform and cleansing" agitation here is intended to correct.

IS GOVERNOR READY TO GO?

The Question Raised As To How Soon He Will Turn Over The Office.

MAY NOT RESIGN JUST AT PRESENT

Many Things Yet To Be Accomplished Before He Can Leave for Other Duties--Much Doubt As To Movements.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 25, 2:30 p. m.—Governor La Follette has handed the legislature something of a Chinese puzzle in his acceptance of the United States senatorship. It was an acceptance, conditioned on the expedition enactment of legislation promised by La Follette's platform. He said that he accepted the election, but emphatically added that if any new conditions are to make it inconsistent for him to go to Washington or endangered the passage of legislation promised in his long fight, he would hand the office back and remain here to continue the battle. The halfbreeds look upon this as the worst possible position to take. Others observe that it is a challenge to the railroads and stalwarts not to obstruct the administration plans. In one portion of the speech he said that to leave the governorship at the very beginning of the session would be a desertion of duty, but there could be nothing to keep him here after the legislature adjourned unless his reform measures failed of enactment. This suggests that he will go as soon as reform measures are enacted but may wait until after the legislature adjourns.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Jan. 25.—Governor La Follette may defer taking his seat in the United States senate March 4. He is desirous of having the measures for which he has contended written upon the statute books and would gladly put off for a time the assumption of the senatorial toga in order to be able to say that he remained at the head of the state government until the pledges of his platform and his promises to the people were fulfilled.

This is perhaps the most significant of the speculations that came thick and fast after the action of the joint republican caucus and the action of both houses of the legislature in electing him to succeed Senator Charles. Nothing can be learned from the executive office regarding the

SERIOUS CHARGES MADE BY PROMINENT LAWYERS

A Noted New York Jurist Is Subject To Severe Criticism By Members Of The Bar.

(SPECIAL BY SCHIFFS-M'RAE.)

Washington, Jan. 25.—A petition asking the impeachment of E. Henry Lacombe, circuit judge for the southern district of New York, was addressed to each member of the house by Watt & Doherty, lawyers of Philadelphia. Judge Lacombe heard the appeal of the interstate commerce commission to compel the anthracite railroads to produce books and records and answer questions in the Hearst case, and his decision denying the request of the commission was overruled by the supreme court of the United States. There are twelve specific charges. They contain the allegations that Judge Lacombe:

"Has made and entered decisions, orders and decrees in violation of the constitution, his oath of office and the rules and practice of his own court.

"Has been guilty of wholesale, persistent and continuous unlawful suppression of competent legal evidence.

"Has rendered decisions which he knew could not be carried out.

"Has entered decrees and then made subsequent ones repugnant thereto, the purpose being to create confusion and prevent the carrying out of the first, which remain unrescinded.

"Has made decisions, orders and decrees under false pretenses.

"Has interfered with and improperly influenced members of the circuit court of appeals in the discharge of their duties after an appeal from his decision had been taken.

"Has permitted his personal opinion to dominate in court matters."

Claim to Have Proof. Judge Lacombe's accusers declare they have ample proof to support their charges. George W. Platt of the firm of Watt & Doherty said the action was taken because of the failure of a judge to render a final decision in a suit brought in 1884 by John Dubois of Dubois, Pa., against the cities of New York and Brooklyn, for infringement upon a patent held by him. The contest is being made by the executor of the inventor's estate. It is probable action in the impeachment proceedings will go over until the next congress.

PRIMARY LAW AS IT IS APPLIED

GOES INTO EFFECT FOR THE SPRING ELECTION.

A BRIEF SYNOPSIS OF LAW

Time Is Short for Ambitious Statesmen To Select Their Plan of Nomination

So much speculation has been expressed as to the possible effects of the primary election law relative to the coming spring election that a leading attorney in the city has kindly made the following synopsis of the law relative to the primary election. As will be seen from perusal of the following article little time remains for the filing of nomination papers and it is said that already several candidates have begun preparations for having their nomination papers properly signed and attested to.

Election will be held on April 4th. Any primary, other than the September primary, shall be held two weeks before the election for which such primary is held. For Janesville, this spring, it will be March 21st.

Notice of such primary shall be given by the city clerk, in the manner provided, not more than twenty and not less than ten days before such primary election. If the primary election is held on March 21st, such notice should be given not later than March 11th, and not earlier than March 1st.

Nomination papers shall be filed with the city clerk.

For all city nominations, all signers of each separate nomination paper shall reside in the same precinct.

The usual affidavit of a qualified elector must be appended to each nomination paper, stating that he is personally acquainted with the persons who have signed, that he knows them to be electors of such precinct, that he knows they signed with knowledge of the contents, that their residences are stated therein, that each signer signed the same on the date stated opposite his name, and that he, the affiant, intends to support the candidate named therein. Such affidavit shall not be made by a candidate, but every candidate shall file with his nomination paper or papers a declaration that he will qualify as such officer, if nominated and elected.

The nomination paper must be substantially the following form:

"I, the undersigned, a qualified elector, of the _____ precinct, of the _____ ward, of the city of Janesville, county of Rock, and state of Wisconsin, and a member of the _____ party, hereby nominate _____, who resides at No. _____ on _____ street, city of Janesville, in the county of Rock, as a candidate for the office of _____, to be voted for at the primary to be held on the 21st day of March, 1905, as representing the principles of said party, and I further declare that I intend to support the candidate named therein."

No signatures shall be counted unless they be upon sheets having substantially the aforesaid form written or printed at the top.

Such papers shall be signed by at least three percent of the electors in at least one precinct, there shall not be less than three percent of the total vote of his party. The

YOU CAN INTEREST HIM.

Any Man Over Fifty.

You can interest any man over fifty years of age in anything that will make him feel better, because while he may not as yet have any positive organic disease he no longer feels the buoyancy and vigor of twenty-five, nor the freedom from aches and pains he enjoyed in earlier years, and he very naturally examines with interest any proposition looking to the improvement and preservation of his health.

He will notice among other things that the stomach of fifty is a very different one from the stomach he possessed at twenty-five. The greatest care must be exercised as to what is eaten and how much of it, and even with the best of care, there will be increasing digestive weakness with advancing years.

A proposition to perfect or improve the digestion and assimilation of food is one which interests not only every man of fifty but every man, woman and child of any age, because the whole secret of good health, good blood, strong nerves, is to have a stomach which will promptly and thoroughly digest wholesome food, and every constituent of the body are entirely the product of indigestion, and no medicine or "health" food can possibly create pure blood or restore shaky nerves, when a weak stomach is replenishing the daily wear and tear of the body from a mass of fermenting, half-digested food.

No, the stomach itself wants help and no round-about way, either; it wants direct, unmistakable assistance, such as is given by one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal.

These tablets cure stomach trouble because their use gives the stomach a chance to rest and recuperate; one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contains digestive elements sufficient to digest 2,000 grains of ordinary food such as bread, meat, eggs, etc.

The plan of dieting is simply another name for starvation, and the use of prepared foods and new fangled breakfast foods simply makes matters worse, as any dyspeptic who has tried them knows.

As Dr. Bennett says, the only reason I can imagine why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not universally used by everybody who is troubled in any way with poor digestion is because many people seem to think that because a medicine is advertised or is sold in drug stores or is protected by a trade mark must be a humbug, whereas as a matter of truth any druggist who is observant knows that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have cured more people of indigestion, heartburn, heart trouble, nervous prostration and run-down condition generally than all the patent medicines and doctors' prescriptions for stomach trouble combined.

basis of percentage shall be the vote of the party for the presidential elector receiving the largest vote at the last presidential election.

Nomination papers may be filed for non-partisan candidates. Such papers shall contain at least two per cent of the total vote cast at the last preceding general election; the signers to such papers to be distributed as above provided.

Nomination papers must be filed at least thirty days prior to the primary, in order that names of candidates may be printed on official primary ballot. If the primary for Janesville is held on March 21st, nomination papers should be filed not later than February 19th.

The primary election law makes specific provisions as to publication of names and notices, official ballots, expenses, conduct of primaries, and voting thereat, and other provisions which are of special interest to officials, and not to the general public.

It is provided in section 2 of the law that candidates may be nominated by nomination papers signed and filed as provided by existing statutes, that is to say, as follows: A candidate for a city office may be nominated by nomination paper or papers containing his name, the office for which he is nominated, his business or vocation, his residence, with street and number, if any, and the party or principle which he represents expressed in not more than five words. Such paper or papers shall be signed by not less than a half per cent of the whole number of votes cast at the last general election; if for a ward office, in a ward polling more than two hundred fifty votes, by at least twenty electors thereof. There are the usual provisions in regard to the signing of the papers, the affidavit of a qualified elector, etc.

MANY MEETINGS ARE TO BE HELD

Wisconsin Societies To Hold Their Annual Meetings During the Next Month.

The month of February at the capital city of Wisconsin will be crowded with agricultural conferences, conventions and educational opportunities. Conventions will be held of the State Agricultural association and various allied interests, including the horticulturists and numerous societies of livestock breeders. Among these gatherings there will be two features said to be unique in this state and of such nature as to be interesting to the agricultural population of the entire country. They are the school of grown-up farmers and the conference of farmers' housekeepers.

The first is a session of ten days for practical instruction for mature farmers, from entrance to which all men younger than 25 years are barred. The second is designed for the women of the farms, the wives and daughters of the men who attend the agricultural lectures. The school for housekeepers is new with the present year; the school for mature farmers was first held a year ago and abundant success attended it so that Dean W. A. Henry, head of the Wisconsin Agricultural college, has decided to make the feature a permanent annual affair. The farmers' course lasts ten days, from February 14 to 24, packed full of lectures, instruction, demonstrations, experiments and practical work. The session last year proved that the 175 farmers present were eager for such strenuous living for ten days and were not wearied by a course which many educators pronounced "foolishly fat" for practical farmers. Mornings, afternoons and evenings were crowded full of work, but every lecture and every demonstration was fully attended and highly appreciated. Few books are used, the short time of the course and the many eminent educators at hand making instruction more effective by lectures and practical demonstrations.

Among the men on the staff of instruction are some of the foremost of the country—President Charles R. Van Hise, head of the State University of Wisconsin; Dr. Stephen Moulton Babcock, inventor of the world-famous Babcock milk test, which discovery he gave free of cost to the farmers of the world and which is worth millions of dollars each year to the farmers of Wisconsin alone; Prof. W. A. Henry, founder of the Wisconsin agricultural college; Prof. Ransom A. Moore, professor of the treatment of oat and barley seed, by which the disastrous smut is practically eliminated from the crop, also the professor of Wisconsin-Swedish oat seed of multiplying benefit to the Wisconsin oat crop; John Splan, the veteran horseman, author of "Life with the Trotters," and many other notable men. The subjects upon which instruction is given include almost everything embraced in the four-year course in agriculture at the university and other practical subjects, the aim throughout being to raise the effectiveness and profit of the toil of the Wisconsin farmer.

The housekeepers' school will be held in the university department of Domestic Science and Home Economy, under the direction of Professor Caroline L. Hunt, assisted by Miss Ellen Alden Huntington. There will be given daily lectures on food, accompanied with practical cooking demonstrations, and various lectures on subjects of interest to women and valuable in the management of a household. Opportunity will be freely given for discussion by the attending farmers' wives and daughters. Among the subjects treated will be, Food for Health, the Care of Children, Water Supplies, Ventilation, Care of Flowers, House Furnishing and Marketing. For these opportunities provided for the Wisconsin farmers and their women, no charges whatever are made. The interest in the forthcoming meetings is said by Dean Henry to be marvelous.

North-Western Road P. C. Cobben, engineer on the Fond du Lac way-freight, is off duty, being relieved by Engineer L. M. Gossett.

Foreman T. Erickson, George Road, Herman Schumacher and Floyd Dwyer, all went to Port Atkinson this morning in the wrecking crew to aid in the work of replacing the passenger from the north on the rails.

Engineer Lewis and Foreman T. Hargrave are laying off the Chicago-Janesville passenger.

The north-end way-freight was abandoned this morning. Engineer Fisher and Foreman double-heading the Fond du Lac passenger at 12:45.

Drakeman L. H. Barber of Baraboo has been assigned to run numbers 378 and 383 between Baraboo and Chicago.

E. G. Buehler of the Madison division has been assigned the position on runs numbers 502 and 579 between Elroy and this city.

By the promotion of W. E. Morse several advancements have been made. P. J. O'Brien has been appointed superintendent of the northern Wisconsin division. B. E. Terpin has been made assistant superintendent of the Wisconsin division to fill the vacancy made by the advancement of P. J. O'Brien. M. J. Gormley has been appointed trainmaster of the Minnesota division in place of B. E. Terpin and W. F. Welker has been advanced to the position formerly held by M. J. Gormley, trainmaster of the Iowa division.

Canadian railway men are under the impression that J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. are seeking a control of the proposed new Hudson Bay route from the northwest to Europe. It has leaked out that Morgan & Co. have already acquired $6,000,000 worth of bonds of the Canadian Northern railway, and simultaneously with this announcement comes the further one that the construction of the Canadian Northern's branch line to Hudson Bay is to be immediately proceeded with. Some Canadians profess to see in Mr. Morgan's purchase of the bonds only a natural sequel to the Speyers' purchase of Grand Trunk Pacific bonds.

The San Francisco, Idaho & Montana railroad, which has just been incorporated and which is capitalized at $50,000,000, is believed to be a move of J. J. Hill to reach the southern Pacific territory. While the road has been incorporated, it is not considered probable that work will be begun in the immediate future, as it desires valuable concessions which will require considerable time to secure.

QUITE A TRICK, AFTER ALL.

Grandpa Was Sure He Could Ride a Bike, But Met with Disaster.

"I can't understand why young people are so slow in learning to ride a bicycle," said the old gentleman; "the rising generation seems to require more time and practice at it than a Chinaman would want to learn to dance a hornpipe."

"But it's hard work, grandfather," ventured his grandson, Johnny, relates London Tit-Bits.

"Hard fiddlesticks! Did you ever see anybody break in colts?"

"No, grandfather."

"Well, I used to go into the field where the colts were playing, catch 'em, bridle and ride 'em!"

"Was it difficult?"

"Well, I should say it was. They would plunge, kick, bite, rear, roll; yet you had to stick on. It was the only thing to do!"

"Perhaps it wasn't as hard as learnin' to ride a bike."

"Don't talk to me, you young jackanapes! Why, boy, a colt is a living thinking, reasoning animal; while your bicycle is an inanimate thing at best!"

"Did you ever try to ride one, grandfather?"

"No, indeed. Why should I waste time on such nonsense? But it's just like riding a colt. I s'pose you jump right on and stay there, no matter what happens."

"Here, grandfather, try my bike."

"Oh, well, if it'll please you. As I observed, you just put your foot in the stirrup, same as mounting a colt—so! Then you leap on its back—so-so, and I'm off—I mean—I-I'm on—see?"

"Pretty good start, grandfather; go on."

"Knew I could do it. Now you (wow) just k-k-keep your b-b-back (pshaw!) and go on with the (wow) came pretty near going that (time) motion of the w-wheel. See? Ah-ah-o-o-o-h! Thought I couldn't (pshaw!) do it after—af—af—af—ch—(look out, there!) this is—this is fun (pshaw!) for a man who has broken colts—colts—col—Ha! ha! thought your grandfather was a novice, a tyro, an old noodle, did you? Show you young fellows s-s-somethin'-thing after awhile 'bout riding—(Ah! Oh! Hold on! Hold on—help! Oh-o-o! Oh-o-o!)"

"Grandfather, are you killed?"

"Wh-what? Wh-where am I?"

"You were riding my bike. Are you badly hurt, grandfather?"

"Hurt, you young rascal! Why, I haven't a whole bone in my body. Don't grin in that insane fashion, boy. You'd better keep out of my way if you don't want a thorough good thrashing."

Then Johnny carried his machine to the coachhouse, and kept out of sight for an hour.

Savory Stew Was of Dog.

A few officers of a British ship were dining with a mandarin at Canton. One of the guests wished a second helping of a savory stew, which he thought was composed of duck. Not knowing a word of Chinese, he held up his plate to his host, saying, with smiling approval: "Quack, quack, quack!" The mandarin was an intelligent Chinaman. Shaking his head he pointed to the dish of stew and said: "Bow, wow, wew!"

LATE REPORTS OF STOCK MARKETS

What the Past Week Brought to The New York Exchange Regarding Prices.

New York.—Prices have advanced for the week, and the sum total of the dealings has resulted in an increase of bullish sentiment, especially toward the leading dividend paying railroads. The activity in the market has been confined to a few stocks only, but general sentiment has taken on a bullish tinge in consequence.

Union Pacific advanced to the highest point for some years in a whirl of buying last Monday, when over a quarter of a million shares changed hands, the price advancing above 120. The usual reports accompanied the advance, and the action of the manipulation succeeded in distributing considerable stock. The arbitrage dealing (buying the convertible bonds and selling the stock against them) continued, and there is no doubt that a large short interest now exists of that character. This interest, however, cannot be driven to cover, for conversion takes place when short sales cannot be covered at a profit. In the meanwhile, the real status of the Northern Securities case remains the same, with every likelihood of an appeal to the highest court in the land.

A place of news which had little influence on speculative trading, but which is of far-reaching importance in business circles, was the final settlement by Governor Douglas of the prolonged and distressing strike of the Pull River textile mill hands. The strike has lasted since July, being one of the greatest struggles in the history of the industry. It has helped materially in holding down the price of cotton.

Apogee of the extraordinary advance in Reading shares, the recent placing of this road upon a dividend paying basis for the first time in twenty-eight years has given rise to rumors that the earnings were so flattering as to warrant immediate action on the part of the directors in placing the stock upon a 5 per cent basis. The probable explanation of the rise is the fact that a bull pool has been utilizing the scant floating supply of the stock in brokers' hands as a lever to advance the price in a campaign against the short interest. It remains to be seen, however, whether success will crown their efforts. The extra large transactions recorded on the tape from day to day deceived no one familiar with Wall Street methods of manipulation. It is generally believed, however, in well-informed circles that there is good foundation for the advance in Reading shares, and that there are many rumors to and out of Wall street, concerning important pending developments among the railroad handling the hard coal traffic. The acquisition by the New Haven of the Ontario & Western has necessitated certain adjustments to preserve the railroad balance of power, and it is thought that Erie will be drawn into the re-adjustment. The steady growth of the earning power of Reading has attracted many investors to that property, as holding out attractions of unusual merit. The statistics, showing at present, increasing consumption of coal would lead to the conclusion that the "Coalers" in the next twenty years will become the high-priced investments of the street.

The action of the "Amalgamated Copper Directors" in declaring 1/2 per cent extra dividend, on Thursday, has been overshadowed for some little time. The increase in the Boston & Montana dividend to $10 per share increased the profits of the Amalgamated Co., which owns most of the outstanding shares of the Boston & Montana. With the copper metal market advancing, and demand on the increase, the earnings of Amalgamated warrant a greater dividend than the one declared. It appears to us very plain that Amalgamated dividends will closely follow the advance in the raw metal, and should metal go to 15 or 17 cents before the year ends, Amalgamated will be selling near par.

Prices continue not only to hold their own, but to enter new territory. Business conditions are at a maximum of expansion, and all indications point toward a continuation of this speculative and commercial improvement.

Yours very truly, J. S. BACHE & CO.

Glasshouses in England.

At the present time there are some 1,500 acres in England covered over with glass, which if stretched in one straight line would form a glass house a good deal longer than the length of England, and about ten feet in width. Fifty years ago the acreage covered by glasshouses did not exceed much more than 200. From the 1,500 acres of glasshouses are produced annually about 6,000 tons of tomatoes, 2,000 tons of peaches, and 1,500 tons of grapes.

Where Beer Started.

The Roman soldiers in Britain, when they first saw the Kentish hop vines, thought they had found the nearest thing to the grape the savage northland produced. In their efforts to make wine from hops they produced the first beer made in England.—N. Y. World.

Fad Advances Prices.

At present a fancy value attaches to old pewter, to old fire dogs and fire backs, snufflers, brass candlesticks and the like. A "fad" of this kind occurred recently at a farm at Kingsworthy, near Winchester, where an "old tub" was found to be a standard Winchester bushel of bell metal. The object, which the farmer had sold for a few shillings, was sold later for $200.—London Country Gentleman.

EX TEMPORE WORK COMMENCES SOON

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS ASSIGNED TOPICS TO PREPARE.

ORCHESTRA HAS ORGANIZED Elects Officers—Supt. Buell Explains System of Election of Senator.

Extemporaneous speaking at the high school will soon be commenced. Four groups of topics, sixteen subjects in all, have been given to the scholars and preparation on these is now being made. The reading rooms of the library are the most popular places to read up on the various subjects which deal with question discussed in the periodicals and during the period of eight or twelve weeks, in which time this extra rhetorical work is required of the students, the latest magazines and bound reference volumes are much in use among the scholars. The first speeches will be made a week from Friday, February 10. The four groups of topics will be used during the four weeks commencing with the first Friday, but meeting with the first Friday, but devoted to the extemporaneous work and a group working for each week. No two of the four classes—Freshmen, Sophomore, Junior, Senior—will have the same group the same week, the four classes taking the four groups in rotation.

The Groups of Topics.

The four groups of subjects given for the first four weeks work are as follows:

"The Importance of the Fall of Port Arthur;" "Recent Progress in Wireless Telegraphy;" "Improvements in Modern Farm Machinery;" "Theodore Thomas."

"The Automobile for Pleasure and Business;" "The Russian Argument of the Present War;" "Japanese Side of the Present War;" "Why I Enjoy Reading a Good Book Like—"

"Modern Implements of Warfare;" "Roosevelt's Plan for Further Control of the Railroads;" "New States to Be Admitted Into the Union;" "Why I Prefer Studying the Course in the High School."

"Progress in Aerial Navigation;" "Why I Favored the Election of— for President;" "What There Was of Interest in the Poem—'For me,' " "Present Condition of the Panama Canal."

Orchestra Organizes.

The high school orchestra which plays for the first time this year at the lecture of Dr. Beaton, Friday evening, has recently organized. The officers elected are: President—Lester Strang; secretary—Miss Louise McGowan; treasurer—Miss Mary McGinley; and librarian—Will Spohn. A committee to draw up a constitution and form and arrange a code of by-laws was chosen as follows: Archie Witherell, chairman; Cecil Burgess and Grant Hyde. As yet this year the orchestra has not played, no school functions calling for music. Practices have been regular and the members faithful and a great many pieces of music have been learned which will probably be rendered Friday evening.

System of Senatorial Election.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, January 25, 1865.—Held to Bail.—A man named Benjamin Swale of Beloit had an examination yesterday afternoon before court commissioner Merrill, on charge of making a false affidavit to get his name off the enrollment list. He was held to bail in the sum of $700 for his appearance before the U. S. District Court. The charge against him was that he voted and then filed an affidavit that he was not.

General Terry, whom Fort Fisher has made famous, has a sister who is a hospital nurse in the department of the South and is highly esteemed by all who have known her in that capacity. His cousin Miss Rose Terry is well known to the reading public as the author of many magazine stories and verses.

Donation Party.—The friends of Rev. A. A. Potts are requested to meet at the house of J. G. Hitchcock in the town of Janesville on Wednesday afternoon and evening, February 8th, 1865. An oyster supper will be given.

Since the breaking out of the war the adjutant general's office of New York has issued no less than 33,000 commissions to officers in the army. Under Governor Morgan, 14,000 and under Governor Seymour, 16,000. The number of New York officers now in the field amounts to about 10,000.

Repeal to the Paper Duty in the House.—By the decided vote of 97 to 40 the House voted to repeal the duty on paper. Washburne of Illinois sprung it upon the House Monday, and put it through under the operation of the previous question. All honor to him and the man who sustained him. Now let legislators of the state hurry up that memorial to strengthen the hands of the senators. The paper monopolists will make a tremendous effort to defeat it. We are glad to note that every member of Wisconsin voted for the repeal.

Good for Fry.—Provost Marshal General Fry has revised his arithmetic and reduced the quota of Wisconsin some seven thousands in round numbers from the original figures. We are glad of it and hope that he will cipher the thing over again and reduce it still more. Everybody believes that it is about four thousand more than it ought to be now, but what we fear is that Fry's next order, hourly expected, may add several thousand to our quota. Fry's incompetency is shameful.

Increased Cost of Newspapers.—The Detroit Daily Tribune and Cincinnati Commercial, on account of the increased price of printing paper have raised their price to $12 per annum. In making the announcement the latter says: "The whole of the present advance will go to the paper manufacturers." A portion of the Chicago dailies raised their prices from $12 to $14 per annum some time ago. The leading Rochester papers raised their price to $12 early in September. The Milwaukee papers advanced their price to $3 per quarter even earlier.

THE CRITICAL PERIODS IN A WOMAN'S LIFE

Are When the Change Comes From Childhood to Womanhood and Later When the Organs of the Pelvic Region Cease Their Work.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS.

When the child changes from girlhood to womanhood and again later in life when the organs of the pelvic region cease their work, there is a strain thrown upon the nervous system, that requires outside aid that there may be supplied a proper amount of additional strength and resistive power. This Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills do to a certainty by their ability to supply to the nervous system and the organs affected, an amount of nerve strength and energy that enables them to accommodate themselves rapidly and easily to the changes taking place.

Mrs. Julia Rowland, of No. 264 Pearl St., Buffalo, writes:

"Both myself and daughter, aged 17, are deeply indebted to Dr. A. W. Chase and his Nerve Pills. They certainly are a grand tonic to the nerves. I used them about a year ago, and gave me the strength and vitality to go through the ordeal that usually comes to woman at change of life, and found all the nervousness, crying spells and weakness disappear in a hurry. This led me to give them to my daughter about the time she began to have the endless trouble some girls do in early life, and the medicine acted equally as well with her. She grew strong and steady—the color became good—the languor and lassitude disappeared and she was able to go about her school duties as usual. I consider the Dr. A. W. Chase Nerve Pills unequalled as a nerve and general tonic in such cases and gladly recommend them to others who suffer in a similar manner." 50c a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., on every package.

MERRY EVENING IN SPITE OF COLD

DANCE AT ASSEMBLY HALL WAS WELL ATTENDED.

SEVERAL SMALL COMPANIES

Were Entertained at Cards, and Odd Fellows and Elks Enjoyed Initiations and Banquets.

Long strands of evergreen and smilax radiating from the centre of the ceiling and cozy corners with bright colored hangings and inviting easy-chairs gave to Assembly hall a festive air last evening. Despite the extreme cold fully one hundred couples had assembled for the dancing party, given under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Society of St. Patrick's church, when Smith & Knapp's full orchestra sounded the opening waltz at eight o'clock. Every moment of the time until twelve was thoroughly enjoyed and compliments were showered on the committees who had the affair in charge: arrangements—Nellie Callahan, Lou Barry, Rose McCooey, Nellie Heffernan, Alice Ludden, and Kittie Smith; reception—Elizabeth Joyce, Jeanette Murphy, Catherine Dawson, Nellie Hayes, Mayne Kennedy, Margaret Golden; floor—Richard Smith, William McCue, Thomas Heffernan, Joseph Bohan, John McManus, and Martin Timmons.

Miss Ford Hostess
Miss Janet Ford was hostess at a little company given at her home, 103 Madison street, last evening in honor of Miss Leonore Meinhardt of Burlington, Wis. There were four tables for the game of sixty-three and the highest scores were made by Miss Agnes Shumway and Stanley D. Tallman. The prizes were cups and saucers, the one for the gentleman being a novelty patterned after the well-known "cube of chance." At the conclusion of the playing a delicious four-course luncheon was served, after which an hour or more was devoted to music and anecdotes. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. William Ruger, Mr. and Mrs. David Atwood, Mrs. Herbert Ford, the Misses Helen Nash, Anna Vanevor, Joan Shumway, Louise Seneator, Joan Seneator, Harriet Boswick, Leonore Meinhardt, and Roger Ford; and Messrs. H. R. Chamberlain, Bernard Palmer, J. L. Ford, E. V. Whitton, Charles Reynolds, S. D. Tallman, Howard Ruger, Charles Tallman, and R. H. Van Cleave.

At the Stevens Home
Mrs. W. T. Tallman and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stevens entertained thirty friends at cards last evening at the home of the latter on Marine street. Mr. and Mrs. Ash and Mrs. Shannon of Edgerton were the guests of honor. After the card playing had been concluded, and the first prize awarded Mrs. Frank Strickler, a tempting repast was served. The guests departed about midnight after having passed a most enjoyable evening.

Bob-Ride and Social
An account of the cold weather only thirty participated in the bob-ride and social given by the ladies of Christ church at the McKenney home, 56 Ruger avenue, last evening; but those who attended were fully repaid by a most enjoyable evening. The sleigh trips were made from the parish-house and cards and music furnished the amusement at the other end of the journey. Refreshments were served during the progress of the festivities and the last of the merry-makers did not depart until near midnight.

Entertained Cinch Club
Mrs. Dan Skelly entertained the Second Ward Cinch club at her home on Prospect avenue yesterday afternoon. The prizes were awarded Mrs. Frank Lawson and Mrs. Alfred Jerg. A tempting repast was served at the conclusion of the playing.

To Ward Off Insomnia
How to make peace with Morpheus, the sleep-god, after drinking much strong coffee late in the evening, was a topic quite exhaustively discussed at one of the numerous parties last evening. One young lady said that she found it an excellent expedient to sit on the edge of the bed, and execute a sort of electric fan movement with her bare foot on the carpet; another tried to recall all the dances she had purposely cut and soon tumbled into the sea of dreams from utter exhaustion; another rolled her eyes backward endeavoring to fix them on the head-board behind the pillow and locate some imaginary dust; another said that she always got up and read the Good Book. The young men testified that they always arose and lighted their pipes, endeavoring to neutralize the effect of one poison by the use of another.

Odd Fellows at Banquet
After the initiation of three new members at the west side hall last evening, Janesville Lodge No. 90, I. O. O. F., was tendered a complimentary banquet by the ladies. The latter feature was a surprise to the whole lodge but full justice was done the bountiful repast.

TO HAVE GAME IN ASSOCIATION GYM

Y. M. C. A. and High School Teams Play Basket Ball This Evening.

For the third time this season the Y. M. C. A. basketball five and the high school team will meet in a game this evening. The contest will be played in the association gymnasium and the advantage of familiarity with baskets and gymnasium will be with the Y. M. C. A. aggregation. The high school team has been victorious in the two former games, but both were played in the school building and the opposing five had not done any great amount of practice. This evening's competition will, without a doubt, be sharper than either of the former ones and both contesting teams have good prospects of winning. The line-up of each team will be substantially the same as in other games.

HAVE CUT LAST OF PRESENT CROP

RUN OF SUGAR BEETS AT FACTORY ENDED THIS MORNING.

BUT STILL MAKING SUGAR

Much Work Remains To Be Done at Factory—To Make Ready for Next Crop.

This morning at four o'clock the last beet was sliced at the Rock County Sugar company's plant, and while the process of making sugar will not be finished for a week more, the season's run is practically over. The factory has used in the neighborhood of thirty-seven thousand tons of beets since it opened last fall and has employed in the neighborhood of 300 men continuously.

A Summer's Work
There is still much to be done in making the factory ready for next year's crop and a goodly number of men will be employed finishing the buildings and arranging for the care of the machinery until the factory opens for the 1905 crop next October.

Many Thousands
In payment for the thirty-seven thousand tons of beets the factory has cut approximately the farmers are richer by $166,000. Aside from this there is the salary list of three hundred employees, the cost of construction and everything to be taken into account and the money placed in circulation will touch almost the half million mark. Already many farmers are contracting for this year's acreage and men who raised six and eight acres last year are anxious to raise twelve and eighteen this season.

BEGGS FORGIVENESS OF STANLEY TALLMAN

Chicago Young Lady Conscience—Stricken Over Theft of Some Apples in His Orchard.

In these days of case-hardened consciences, remorse over trivial misdeeds which can prompt the wrong-doer to attempt to make some sort of restitution savors of the unusual, almost, one would say, of the unnatural. Until this morning Stanley D. Tallman may have believed that such things were only found in story-books. Here is the letter, which explains it:

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 23, 1905.

Dear Sir: Some years ago while I lived in Janesville, I went into your orchard one night, in company with some other girls and boys, and stole some apples. I have since then been converted and feel that I must make this confession, and ask your forgiveness. Hoping to get a favorable reply, I am sincerely,

MISS AUGUSTA WIENEKE,
1006 Park Ave., Chicago.

Mr. Tallman has magnanimously absolved the "writer of all sin."

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Discontented Deer

A deer once became dissatisfied with his lot. His home was on a high plateau which was well covered with woods and broken by beautiful streams which fell in bubbling cascades at the edge of the plateau to the valley below.

"That is a beautiful valley," declared the deer one day as he stood and looked at the pretty landscape spread out before him, but many hundred feet below. "How I should like to live there, and yet it is impossible for me to climb down the steep sides of this immense precipice. Just now I saw a little sparrow who had been twittering in a bush at my side spread his wings and swiftly fly down, down, down, to the meadow on the bank of the valley stream. Why should not I fly?"

And the foolish deer thought so long on this subject that he actually became possessed of the idea that he could fly.

"Here I go," he cried at last; "here I go to the velvet meadows and the cool shade of yonder valley!"

Then he plunged forward into the air.

"Well, there isn't anything more to tell about the deer, but it may be said that on that same day the jackals of that beautiful valley had a feast of boneless venison such as they had never enjoyed before—Atlanta Constitution.

HE STOOD AND LOOKED AT THE PRETTY LANDSCAPE.

After an illness of a year's duration John F. Courtney passed peacefully away at the home of his brother, Thomas Courtney, 256 South River street, just before nine o'clock last evening. He was forty-one years of age and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Courtney, and two brothers, Thomas and Robert, all of this city; and one sister, Mrs. Clarence Myers of Norwood Park.

Funeral services will be held from St. Patrick's church Friday morning at 9:15 o'clock. Interment will be in Mount Oliver cemetery.

NORWESTER MADE RAILWAYS SUFFER

Traffic Tied Up Yesterday Afternoon, and Is Still Greatly Delayed.

Yesterday's wind coming out of the northwest was not at all to the liking of the railroad men. It tied up traffic completely on the northern Wisconsin division of the North-Western road last evening and greatly delayed all trains this morning. The loose snow which has fallen during the past few days was picked up by the blasts and carried into every cut and across every stretch of track unprotected from the wind and there drifted. Many trains throughout Wisconsin and the other states of the northwest were snowed in. The passenger due here at 8:30 o'clock last evening from the north did not arrive until this morning at 10:00 o'clock and all other trains over the northern Wisconsin division were blocked. The way-freight from here to Fond du Lac was abandoned this morning and the engine and crew double-headed the 12:45 passenger out this noon. The train of last evening which was so late was derailed near Jefferson and a relief train was sent out from here at midnight and the wrecking crew was sent there this morning.

WAS POSTPONED UNTIL FRIDAY
Cold Weather and Social Gatherings Caused Adjournment of Base Ball Gathering.

Too cold weather and too much doing in a social line caused the postponement of the proposed baseball meeting last evening. It will now be held in the city hall on Friday evening and from present indications will be very largely attended. Janesville has many baseball enthusiasts who would like to see the city a member of the state league and the only thing lacking to make the matter an assured fact is a leader. It is hoped that at the Friday night meeting the leader will be forthcoming and that the president of the local stock company will be a man who will assure the success of the venture. Janesville at one time stood at the head of the professional baseball teams of the United States. Its players were eagerly sought after and many of the former stars of the national league doffed the uniform of the Janesville Mutuals to don the colors of some of the major league teams. There is plenty of good baseball material about the city to form a nucleus of the team and the close association of many of the present club magnates with Janesville men would assure a goodly list of "benchmen" from the minor leagues who would gladly be farmed out to Janesville for the season. The proposition of forming a stock company means that perfect union of ideas regarding the work of the team and the expenses is necessary and in order to reach the best solution of this matter all men interested in baseball are invited to be present at the Friday night meeting.

ENGINE REACHES BELLOIT APPEARING TO BE AFIRE

Headlight on Madison-Chicago Flyer Exploded South of State Line, Monday.

Monday night the Madison-Chicago flyer, which reaches here shortly before seven o'clock on the North-Western road, arrived here with a large switch light scattering the darkness usually driven away by the headlight. The lamp in the headlight exploded just at the crossing south of the state line below Beloit and the front of the locomotive appeared to be a mass of flames when it reached the line city. The fireman, who with the engineer, was attempting to extinguish the blaze after arrival in Beloit, finally succeeded in pulling out the oil reservoir and put out the flames with a few buckets of water. The train was delayed for some time and did not arrive in Janesville until a considerable time after the schedule hour.

THOS. MULCAIRNS IS FOUND GUILTY

BY SECOND JURY DRAWN TO WEIGH EVIDENCE

OF HIS SUBORNING PERJURY

Jurors Came In Just Before Three Today, After Being Out Four Hours.

Thomas J. Mulcairns, switchman for the North-Western railroad, who was indicted by the grand jury on the charge of suborning perjury and in whose first trial just before Christmas the jury disagreed, was found guilty at the conclusion of his second trial this afternoon. The arguments were concluded at eleven o'clock, Atty. W. A. Jackson assisting District Attorney Newhouse in the prosecution and O. A. Oestreich appearing for the defendant. The jury went out at eleven o'clock, returned to the court room at two for further instructions and the explanation of certain testimony, and brought in their verdict just before three. The twelve were: W. D. Tullman, H. D. McKinney, J. C. Elliott, Fred Jeffris, A. Patterson, W. S. Robinson, Charles Saxby, David Brown, C. B. Conrau, C. E. Rose, Leslie Holmes, and P. K. Caldwell. Mulcairns' offense according to the charge against him, was committed at the time of the trial of "Dab" Griffin and Willie O'Donnell for stealing gloves from a St. Paul freight-car. Little Rose Dulin was an important witness in the trial and the prosecution was led to believe that Mulcairns, in order to betray the two prisoners, persuaded the little girl to swear falsely to the existence of certain mythical third parties in the various moves of the two men to dispose of the stolen merchandise. Judge Dunwiddie did not pronounce sentence this afternoon and owing to the fact that District Attorney Newhouse was absent from the city, arrangements could not be made about the bond. Until he returns Mr. Mulcairns will have to remain at the county jail. The punishment provided by law for this crime is not more than five years or less than two where the offense occurs in any case other than one where a person is on trial for a crime punishable by life imprisonment.

Robbed Hearse for Feathers.

Horace Walpole once told this story of Lady Allsbury. On her return to London from abroad, her ladyship found that the duchess of Devonshire had still the highest feathers. Upon this she tried to get one higher, without success, till she luckily thought of sending to an undertaker. He sent word that his hearse were all cut, but they were expected home in a few days and then he hoped to accommodate her ladyship.

Money Made by Beggars.

No beggar in New York makes less than $5 a day, according to the New York Times. They receive contributions varying from one penny to $25. Some of them are experts in their lines and play only for donations of $5 and $10 and upward, telling plausible stories of unpaid rents, dying wives and starving children, of funeral expenses, and other harrowing experiences that appeal to the sympathies of tender hearted humanity.

Bowser Would Farm

He Sees Dazzling Visions of Wealth In Chickens, Eggs and a Dairy—Gives Figures Showing Great Profits, but Forgets Expense, Which Mrs. B. Itemizes.

[Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure.]

JUST as Mr. Bowser reached his gate the other evening as he came home from the office a man drove up with a patent fire escape in a wagon and sought to interest him. He had called a day or two previously, and Mr. Bowser had been interested and almost ordered one, but now he gave the thing a careless looking over and said:

"It may be a good thing and doubtless is, but I don't care for it."

"But I must show you how it works. These books can be attached to it."

"Yes, I know, but we'll let it go. I wish you well, but I don't care to bother with it."

Mrs. Bowser was looking out of the window and following the matter, and her surprise was great that the man should be turned down. She had further cause for wonderment when Mr. Bowser entered the house. He was calm and serene. One of his umbrellas had fallen from the rack to the floor, but he picked it up and replaced it without a word about that being the worst run house in America.

As he got off the car at the corner the butcher's boy had handed him a bill for 60 cents as balance on the week's account. Ordinarily he would have produced it with a great flourish and demanded it Mrs. Bowser was doing her best to send him to the poor-

Mrs. Bowser's shaft had gone wide of the mark, and she had further cause for wonder. The cat had crept under the piano to be out of the way of flying splinters, but she now came forth and had the audacity to rub against Mr. Bowser's leg and purr in his face. He didn't lift her to his knee and stroke her back, but he looked down on her in a fatherly way and set her to puzzling whether he felt the shadow of death over him or was exhibiting the first symptoms of insanity.

"Aren't you going to get a cow or hog or some chickens for the winter?" continued Mrs. Bowser after an interval, and still hitting at the sore spots.

"I don't think so, dear," was the reply. "I have come to the conclusion that I don't know much about such things. It's laughable what blunders I made."

Her words failed to reach, but she was determined to persist and presently observed:

"I must tell you that the coal for the range won't last over two days more and that the gas bill for the last month is something outrageous."

That ought to have lifted him to his feet and set him to roaring, but it was a dead failure. He continued to read his paper for two or three minutes and then quietly answered:

"Well, as the coal has to have a fire all day now she naturally uses more

How to Win the Girl Whom You Love the Best

"WEREN'T you once in love with Miss Pinkie?" said Dashaway to Cleverton.

Cleverton sighed. "I am still," he replied.

"But," remarked Dashaway, "she rejected you, didn't she?"

"Yes."

"Well, old man, now I'm in love with her, and I've come to you to know just what to do. What's the best way to act?"

Cleverton took him by the arm. "Listen," he said, "and I'll tell you the truth. If you want to win that girl take her to two madhouses every week."

"That's easy."

"Always go in a carriage."

"I see."

"Send her flowers every day."

"Very well."

"Never go near her unless you have something in view for her pleasure."

"Ah, yes."

"Don't waste any time in preliminaries in making love. Begin by throwing your arms around her. If she makes any objections, kiss them promptly away. Don't sit and talk. Spend all the money you have—and act."

Cleverton gazed suspiciously at his friend.

"I'm very anxious to win that girl," he said, "even if you do love her. Are you sure what you are telling me is right?"

"Absolutely."

"What makes you so sure?"

Dashaway smiled a melancholy smile. "Because," he said, "it is just what I didn't do."

"Why He Got No Letters."

The old colored man at his gate with a crutch under his arm had sent a boy of his color, about ten years old, to the postoffice for mail, and the lad had returned empty handed.

"I don't see how dat kin be," mused the old man. "You inquired for Moses Whiteback, did yo'?"

"Yes."

"And did de postmaster dun look or only shake his head?"

"He dun looked."

"And he said dat was no letters or papers?"

"Dat's what he said, uncle."

"Well, I can't make it out. Did yo' call me Moses or Moses?"

"Moses, I reckon, but it might have been Moser."

"Hu, but dat explains it clear as mud," exclaimed the old man. "When I hain't sendin' to de postoffice for mail, I'm Moser or Moser, but when I'm spectin' letters I'm Mr. Worthington Johnson, Esq., and you dun order know it. Yo' didn't gib my right name, an' of coase yo' didn't gib my letters. Now, den, young man, yo' git right down dar an' sugartate de mistake, an' yo' take keer to furnish dat postmaster wid rich an' aristocratical citizenship dat he'll know who I am an' send me up dem leben or fo'teen letters waitin' for me. Shoo! When anybody expects dat a boy ten years old has got a delinquent in his head he's suah to git com-busticated."

"Awful! The worst I ever saw!" said the girl with the gum.

"Wonder where she bought it?" queried the first.

"At Hinkler & Dinkler. I helped her pick it out," answered she of the gum triumphantly.

THE AGE OF HURRY.

There is a persistent effort to be on time--An unremitting strain on the human machine--The result is collapse of the nervous system--Nervous prostration, paralysis or insanity.

This is the age of hurry. More and more people are flocking to the towns and cities, where offices and factories, stores and workshops make life like clockwork. The machinery must be started at the stroke of the gong, and the home must be run at the same swift pace to keep time with the busy workers. Business must be attended to, let the strain on the human system be what it may.

The Daily Grind.

There is the hurry at breakfast, the hurry to work, the hurry to accomplish the daily stint, the hurry at lunch, the hurry home, the hurry to meet evening engagements. There is no time for rest or sleep, no time for the nerves to renew their lost vitality, no time for the body to rebuild its wasted tissues, no time for digestion or assimilation of food, the spirit of hurry is everywhere and few can escape its influence.

Nerves Always at Highest Tension.

As a result of this constant strain you find yourself irritable at slightest provocation and wonder why it is so. Did you ever realize before that you are almost always making an effort to be on time—that you are almost always in a hurry?

In the youth of our grandfathers paralysis, locomotor ataxia and nervous prostration—diseases so common today—were rarely heard of, because the nervous system was not always kept at highest tension as it is today.

EXCESSIVELY NERVOUS.

Mrs. Fred Wholeben of Glade Run, Warren, Pa., says:

"I was induced to use Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills for excessive nervousness. I was so nervous I could not bear a noise or much talking. I was very forgetful—my mind seemed dull. I was listless and tired all the time. The result of the use of the Pills I got was remarkable. They toned up the nerves and system generally and I work well again, am strong—my mind is clear and noise and talk no longer bother me. I am much pleased with the pills and can recommend them highly to anyone who feels as I did."

IRREGULAR HEART.

Mr. Harry Hayden of No. 2303 Jacob St., Wheeling, Pa., says:

"My nervous system was out of order and weakened. This showed in an irregular and irritable heart action, general nervousness and debility. I was told of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and got some and they are fine. My nerves became steady and the heart action regular, general strength came back with this change and I feel I can honestly say the medicine is a fine nerve and general tonic."

SHAKY NERVES.

Mrs. Randolph Knutti of No. 59 Penn St., Salem, Ohio, says:

"Day times I was always nervous—children's noises and little things upset and worried me. As a consequence I felt distressed and debilitated. I was told of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and got some and they acted finely. They made my nerves steady and strong and gave a splendid feeling of general strength and vigor. I don't worry or bother about small things any more, and am very grateful for the change. As a nerve and general tonic I consider the medicine has no equal."

house and demanded how she dared run in debt when he gave her a stipulated sum every week, but on this occasion something was said.

"I presume this is for you, but if you don't happen to have the change I'll give it to you."

The cook had burned the steak, and the potatoes were underdone, and Mrs. Bowser had been in fear and trembling. She expected something to be said, and something was said:

"This seems to be one of the times when the cook is off," remarked Mr. Bowser without frowning and at the same time doing his best to make a meal.

"Yes, she has spoiled your dinner, and I am very sorry for it."

"Oh, well, we can't expect too much from hired help! She'll probably do better tomorrow night."

At other times Mr. Bowser would have taken advantage of the occasion to pound on the table with his fist and vow by the beard of his father that he was not a dog and would not be fed like one, and he would have gone on to say that there was no system in the house and he expected to become a pauper within a year. His conduct appeared so inexplicable that Mrs. Bowser took three or four furtive glances at him and then asked:

"Are you not feeling as well as usual this evening?"

"Just the same, dear, or even better."

Just then a belated banana peddler came along and stopped in front of the house and yelled and shrieked and screamed for five minutes. On other occasions about the fourth scream would have brought Mr. Bowser to the door with blood in his eye, and if the noise had not been cut off short the banana man would have felt a house hit him, but this evening no attention was paid to the sounds.

Mrs. Bowser couldn't make things out. She had a feeling that Bowser was not Bowser, but some one else. After a little deliberation she said:

"I was overhauling one of the old trunks today and found a big package of your old love letters."

"Yes!" he replied. "Well, I suppose I put it in pretty thick in those old days, though I don't know as I would take anything back now."

His old love letters have always been a sore point with him and have had to be only casually mentioned to set him working almost like spite in Mrs. Bowser's heart as she continued:

"I just had to laugh over each one. You wanted to drown yourself to show your love for me, and you were always writing about weeping willows and graves in a woodland dell. If it wasn't for making such a guy of you, I'd show them to Mrs. Green."

"I admit to being in love clear up to my ears, and, of course, I made an ass of myself. Bring the letters down some evening, and we'll read and laugh over them together."

coal, and as the evenings are getting longer we naturally use more gas."

"But the amount of this gas bill is sheer robbery."

"People are prone to complain of the gas company, and yet I believe they are honest men. I have no doubt we burned all the gas we were charged with."

She had another card to play. Hunting up the envelope deck, she laid it on the table before him and said:

"You have bragged around what a good euchre player you are, but I'll show you that you know nothing about the game."

On other nights that challenge would have been met with snorts of defiance, but on this occasion Mr. Bowser softly laid aside his literature and picked up the cards with a smile. She won both tricks, but he hadn't a word to say about foot's luck. She won one trick on the second hand, but was not charged with cheating.

As a matter of fact, she sent him to Chicago in three hands out, and when she clapped her hands and laughed the cat's heart jumped into her mouth, and she said to herself:

"If that don't make the old man get up and howl and smash furniture, then he's a goner for sure."

"I'm an easy mark at any game of cards," was Mr. Bowser's answer to the outburst of elation, and even when it was found that he had won only one game out of seven there was no row.

There was just one thing more Mrs. Bowser could think of, and in her desperation she applied it.

"There are times," she said in a trembling voice, "there are times when you threaten to apply for a divorce. If you want a divorce, why don't you go ahead and get one?"

"Yes, my dear, there are times, many times, when I make a fool of myself, and you are very foolish to pay any attention to anything I say. It will be a sad day when I really feel that I ought to get a divorce from you."

Nothing more could be said. While Mrs. Bowser pretended to read, although her eyes were filled with tears, Mr. Bowser lay down on the lounge and stretched out and played with the cat's tail and was presently asleep. When he began to snore Mrs. Bowser tipped over to the telephone and called up the family doctor and stated facts and fears and wound up by asking:

"I have tried every means, and he cannot be roused. For mercy's sake tell me if anything further can be done?"

"Nothing whatever," was the reply. "Such men as Bowser have lived intervals now and then and behave like other folks, and the only way is to humor their whims. These intervals are generally brief, and let us hope that within the next twenty-four hours your husband will be paying 30c apiece for Leghorn hens and raising eight dollar eggs."

SWAYNE TRIAL.

Chief Justice Fuller, Administers Oath to the Senators.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Preliminary steps for the impeachment trial of Judge Charles Swayne of Florida were taken Tuesday in the senate. The organization for trial was perfected by the swearing of the senators for that purpose, the managers of the house were received for the purpose of formally presenting the articles of impeachment and a resolution summoning Judge Swayne to appear was adopted. Mr. Platt of Connecticut was elected to preside at the trial sessions, Mr. Frye having said he could not serve because of ill health. Further proceedings were postponed until Friday next, when Judge Swayne is expected to appear in response to the summons of the senate.

The ceremony was impressive, and was witnessed by a full senate and by well-filled galleries. The trial oath was administered to senators by Chief Justice Fuller, who appeared in the long black gown worn by him when sitting in the supreme court.

Estimates as to the length of time that the trial will occupy vary from ten days to a month after it is once begun. It is believed that when Judge Swayne appears he will ask a few days to make answer, and when he does answer that a day or two more will be given to the house for the preparation of its replication. A number of witnesses will be heard, and considerable time will be consumed by attorneys. It is therefore probable that the conclusion of the case will not long precede the day of final adjournment in March.

Judge Swayne is now in Wilmington, Del., and Sergeant-at-Arms Randall of the senate started for that city to serve the senate's summons on him.

RUSSIA'S BUSY CITY

MOSCOW A CENTER OF COMMERCIAL IMPORTANCE.

No Room for the Idle Man in This Old Capital of the Empire—Daily Life in Barracks of the Czar's Soldiers.

(Special Correspondence.)

It is said in Russia that one makes money in Moscow and spends it in St. Petersburg. One almost feels inclined, therefore, to compare the two cities, as one does London with Paris. Though this is hardly fair on Moscow; for, although it is, admittedly, the commercial center of the country, and the abode of many of its merchant princes, there is ample opportunity for spending both money and time pleasantly in the ancient capital of the northern empire. Yet there is no gainsaying it, Moscow is, without doubt, the city of the business man rather than the flaneur; and one is not long here before realizing that there is not even a small counterpart of the Nevski Prospect of St. Petersburg, that wonderful thoroughfare which at all hours of the day is thronged with officers in uniform and people who apparently have nothing more serious to do than stroll about and chat and look at the shops.

Of the war less is heard or seen here than in St. Petersburg—where, at any rate, one had the government telegrams posted up at street corners to keep one au courant with the official version of events in the Far east. That the majority of the officers of all ranks and the upper classes generally know by now the real position of affairs is evident; and but a few minutes' conversation is sufficient to convince one that they at least begin to recognize how black the future in the Far East looks for Russia.

What has brought about this change of thought; it is difficult to guess, unless it be that the papers have been given greater freedom, and so allowed to disseminate more news. The lower orders, however, ignorant as they all are, and most of them unable to read or write, are still probably as much in the dark as to what is going on as they have always been; and it will not be until the reserves are mobilized in their own particular districts that they will realize what the war means to them.

The military element is not nearly so much in evidence in Moscow as in St. Petersburg, probably because this is not a military center in the same sense as the capital; in fact, what strikes one principally on a first stroll through the principal streets is the comparative absence of uniforms. Not that there is any dearth of soldiers round about, for the garrison of Moscow itself and its suburbs consists of no less than 20,000 men (that of St. Petersburg in ordinary times being about 50,000), but this large body of men is so distributed, and the barracks are at such distances, that the men are kept out of the center of the city.

Visit to the Barracks.

After reading so much about the Russian soldier at the front, it was Statue of Minin and Pojarski.

but natural that one should desire to see something of the gallant fellow at home. To obtain permission to visit the barracks in this time of war is not an easy matter, but in Russia patience and determination are cardinal virtues, and they must be contagious for a very short stay in the country is sufficient to convince one that nothing is gained over here by trying to "rush" matters. The resolution not to allow oneself to be put out by any little thing comes as a natural sequence.

After, therefore, considerable delay, which the unimportance of the subject scarcely warranted, I was granted a "permit," signed by the Grand Duke Serge himself, to visit certain barracks near the city, where a regiment of Cossacks is stationed. A drive of little less than an hour brought me to the vast open space, which will be forever associated in one's memory with the most awful catastrophe, or, rather, holocaust, of modern times; for it was here that on Coronation day nearly 10,000 people were crushed or suffocated to death while waiting, in a dense and uncontrollable mob, for the distribution of the Emperor's gifts. This ill-omened ground is known as the Petrovski Park, and is principally used now as a review ground for the troops of the garrison, whose barracks adjoin the park.

Soldiers Not Impressive.

The Russian soldier at the best of times is not what one can call a "trim" looking man, but in his barracks when he is off duty he is, if possible, worse. One is somewhat surprised at this, considering how smart his officers always look. It would be difficult to imagine a more dirty-looking, disheveled, and down-at-the-heel crowd of youngsters than one saw here—and none of them of particularly good physique, either. They evidently are not taught to take any pride in their appearance, and slouch about in most unsoldierlike fashion. It was dinner time, and in the hall the men were seated at long tables, on which were placed large wooden bowls, some containing stoup, or vegetable soup, and others kasha, a sort of boiled maize, and, of course, the inevitable black bread. Each man had a wooden spoon, with which he helped himself as he pleased out of either bowl. About six men were allotted to each bowl. There were no plates or pannikins of any sort as one generally sees in soldiers' mess-rooms, but the men were all lapping up their food out of the common dish like so many animals. However, Russians, and more especially the moujik class, which forms the bulk of the army, are not fastidious, and I must in fairness say that the men all appeared to have healthy appetites, the food, though not appetizing to look at, being no doubt wholesome. The meal was quickly finished, for no time appeared to be allowed for dawdling, and immediately afterward the men fell in for various duties. I learned that they got two of these "big meals" a day and tea and black bread sufficient to make two others. If they want any "luxuries" they must buy them themselves out of their magnificent pay of forty-five roubles per month! A stroll round the stables showed that the tough, wiry little steeds have to rough it in their way quite as much as their riders.

The officers' quarters, with a modestly-appointed clubhouse, offered nothing of particular interest so far as one could judge from a cursory glance; nor was I either invited or tempted to prolong my stay here. My permit, coming as it did direct from headquarters, could not fail to command respect, but not necessarily hospitality. I instinctively felt that my visit was not a welcome one. Foreigners, and especially English and Americans, are not exactly "hail fellow, well met" among the military over here just now.

Mother Who Locked Children in Home, Becomes Raving Maniac.

Omaha, Mich., Jan. 25.—Two little children of Mrs. John Longworthy were burned to death in their home here, and the shock has made their mother a raving maniac. Mrs. Longworthy locked her three boys, aged 5 years, 2 years and 10 months, in the house while she went to a neighbor's on an errand. Fire broke out in the house during her absence and spread so fast that it was impossible to rescue the younger children. The older one made his way out of the burning house, but is unable to tell how the fire started.

STRIKERS ANGRY.

ill-starred Russian land.

"Death to them all!"

"I call upon all who seriously are desirous of helping the hard working Russian people to live and breathe freely to come forward and assist when and how they can."

"I call upon all thinking men, upon students, upon revolutionary organizations, upon social democrats, and social revolutionists, to lend a hand."

"He who is not with the people is against the people."

"GEORGE GORON."

Curse on the Soldiers.

Here is the priest's curse on the soldiers who shot and killed, and his blessing on those who desert the army:

"Against the soldiers and officers who slay their innocent brothers, together with their wives and children, and against all oppressors of the people, I utter my pastoral curse."

"Upon all soldiers who help the nation win its liberty I invoke a blessing. From their military oath of allegiance which they took to the traitorous czar, at whose behest the blood of innocent people has been shed, I do hereby absolve them."

"GEORGE GORON, Priest."

Beaten, but Not Conquered.

Here is a letter addressed to his fellows, in which he bids them to be of good cheer and fight on:

"Brothers and Workmen: The innocent blood of the people has been spilled. We harbor within us sentiments of bitterness and vengeance against the brutal czar and the jackals, his ministers. Believe me, the day is near when the host of workmen will rise up more menacing, more conscious, like one man, and will strike for their own freedom and the freedom of all Russia. Weep not for the slain heroes. Be comforted. Beaten we have been, but not conquered. Let us tear up all the portraits of the bloodthirsty czar and say to him, 'Be thou accursed, with all thy most reptile brood.'"

"GEORGE GORON."

Manifesto by Liberals.

Another remarkable manifesto has been issued, signed by 250 literateurs and other educated liberals, belonging to what is known as the "Pravo circle," which furnished the deputation that visited Ministers De Witte and Mirsky. The manifesto, after defending the workmen and condemning Sunday's shooting, concludes:

"The public should understand that the government has declared war on the entire Russian people. There is no further doubt on this point. The government which is unable to hold intercourse with the people except with the assistance of sabers and rifles is self-condemned."

"We summon all the vital energies of Russian society to the assistance of the workingmen, who began the struggle for a common cause of the whole people. Let shame overwhelm the names of those who, in these days of a great fateful struggle, oppose the people and join the ranks of their hangmen."

Father Goron is at liberty but in hiding. The police are making wholesale arrests of authors, journalists, student orators, and men suspected of being revolutionary leaders. The prisons already are filled.

One report declares that Maxime Gorke has been arrested. This is denied by another report, which declared that he escaped just before the police reached his house.

Gorky was a member of the deputation that visited M. de Witte and Prince Mirsky on Saturday. All the members of the deputation except three are now in prison.

The men who escaped are Gorky, M. Kharsenleff, editor of one of the advanced journals, and a workman whose identity is unknown to the police.

Among the prisoners are Prof. Karceff, M. Annensky and M. Feshcheko-noff, three well-known writers, and M. Hessen, editor of the Pravo, whose advanced liberal views are well known.

Factories Are Closed.

While the city is quiet, the lull may be only the precursor of another storm. Not a single mill or factory has started up. This is significant as indicating that the workmen are being supplied elsewhere with money. None has applied for pay at the factories, although some have two weeks' pay coming to them.

The crowds in the streets are sullen and several thousand additional troops were brought in at daylight and housed in barracks. Machine gun batteries were also placed at several points for emergencies.

The terror of the people has been relieved, but the dread of the next few days continues. Many foreigners are leaving Russia.

The foreign embassies are not manifesting alarm. They are expressing confidence that the government will be able to handle the situation and that there is nothing now warranting apprehension for the lives or safety of their fellow countrymen.

The authorities insist that the danger of the situation is exaggerated, continuing to scout the idea of a revolution, and maintaining the ability of the government to meet all emergencies.

Slaughter in Poland.

Berlin, Jan. 25.—A battle between the troops and the citizens of Radom, in Russian Poland, resulted in the killing of an officer and between forty and fifty soldiers, and nearly 100 workmen and reservists.

The citizens later attacked the public buildings with dynamite, and many were completely wrecked.

Troops now hold the town, parading the streets.

ing the streets and bring whenever a crowd assembles. It is believed many more persons have been killed in this way.

According to the newspaper reports, the uprising at Radom was caused by the news of Sunday's massacre at St. Petersburg.

The workmen quit their places of employment simultaneously and paraded the streets, shouting, "Down with the czar!" "Down with the murderers of children!"

Reserves Join Mob.

Some men had revolvers, while others carried explosives. Their cries attracted the attention of the reserves in the barracks, and they broke down the gates and joined the mob.

The governor turned out the troops to suppress the outbreak, but the rioters violently resisted. Their leader discharged his revolver and the captain of a company of infantry fell dead. Another officer also was shot.

The commander of the gendarmes then ordered his men to fire on the ringleader, and the latter fell, badly wounded.

Gendarmes and troops advanced and there was a desperate fight over the body of the ringleader, who, after the demonstrators had been driven back by bayonets, was hacked to death with swords by the gendarmes.

The mob thereupon rushed on the troops and a struggle occurred at close quarters in which another officer and forty or fifty soldiers and nearly a hundred workmen and reservists were killed.

SOUTH AFRICAN BANK TO CLOSE

Robinson Group of Mines No Longer Needs the Institution.

London, Jan. 25.—A circular has been issued calling a meeting on Feb. 8 of Robinson's South African bank to consider a resolution for a voluntary winding up of the concern. The circular explains that the bank is perfectly sound, but that its assistance is no longer required by the Robinson group of mines, which it was originally established to finance, and that the conditions in South Africa since the war render the banking business unprofitable.

Miners Are Entombed.

Pottsville, Pa., Jan. 25.—All hope of rescuing two miners who were entombed at Mount Hope colliery has been abandoned. A rush of coal imprisoned three miners in the colliery, but after working for several hours one of the men was rescued.
